

‘Project Hope’

The Leigh Yawkey Woodson Art Museum, Marathon County Head Start and Aspirus Comfort Care and Hospice Services are participating in a program called "Project Hope," where children are working together to create an art project to support and supplement the 2011 Arts Alive event. More than 200 children from the head start program will create five abstract pieces of art using the theme of "hope." Each child will contribute something to one of the pieces of artwork based on what the word "hope" means to them, and some of the pieces may be available for purchase during the Arts Alive art auction on April 15. "Project Hope" is a 10-session, five-week program that runs throughout March.
